

Jamie Oliver Creates Authentic Cooking at Home

Cooking has always been Jamie's passion and looking for ways to improve the cooking experience is always on his mind. As well as looking for fresh ingredients around the world to flavour his dishes, he also keeps an eye out for new materials and shapes of cookware that would help him in the kitchen, and help to create the most authentic cooking experience.

Together with Tefal, Jamie has created the At Home series - a range of cast iron and cast aluminium cookware to create lively and vibrant cuisine to share with friends and family.

The combination of great strength and fantastic heat conduction makes cast aluminium an ideal material for cooking. Taking advantage of the 'casting' process, the material can be moulded in a whole range of shapes and sizes, allowing new designs and improved styles of cookware to be created. The Jamie Oliver at Home by Tefal cast aluminium range includes frypans, saucepans and stewpots.

This is the most comfortable cast aluminium cookware, created by Tefal for authentic cuisine.

Features of the Cast Aluminium range include :

- Durable, heavyweight cast aluminium body and base for excellent heat conduction and retention
